1. Introduction

Sri Lanka is slowly but surely emerging out of a vicious civil war that has lasted over twenty-five years (July 1983 – May 2009); armed conflict since 1975; and the conflict per se ever since independence in 1948. The amount of human, material, environmental and psychological devastation caused by this long drawn out civil war, especially in the conflict affected Eastern and Northern Provinces, is irreparable and would last for generations, although some quantitative and qualitative estimates do exist (Munasinghe, et al, 2006; Gunatilleke, 2001; Saravananthan, 2006; Somasekaram, 1996).

The purpose of this policy brief is to set out the contours of a broad political and economic policy framework for rebuilding the conflict region (Eastern and Northern Provinces) from the ashes. It is not intended to get into specific sectoral or sub-sectoral strategies, policies, programmes or projects. On the contrary, it charts out a political cum economic path that should be followed by the conflict region, and an enabling environment that the national government should create and foster for speedy recovery from the ruins. Economic reconstruction of the conflict region, undoubtedly, would have a spillover effect on the national economy as well.

Japan and Germany are two prime examples of successful reinvigoration of battered minds and economies after ruinous adventures of war. Imperial Japan and Nazi Germany pursued a militaristic path for dominance of their respective geographical regions of the world. In the same way, the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE or 'Tamil Tigers' for foreigners) waged a relentless and ruthless war for the separation of the Eastern and Northern Provinces from Sri Lanka. The consequences have been disastrous for the Tamil minority community in particular, and for Sri Lanka as a whole. Though the Japanese and German military par fa of dominance were international wars, LTTE's separatist war was internal. However, it could be argued that, though in principle LTTE's war against the Sri Lankan state was internal, its ultimate intent was to create a post-Tamil national state based in the Eastern and Northern Provinces of Sri Lanka (Bandaranaike, 2006; Saravananthan, forthcoming).

However, we frame the LTTE's war of separation (whether national or the international), as a matter of fact, LTTE was an institution that resembled militaristic adventures of the regimes of Imperial Japan and Nazi Germany in the run up to and during the Second World War. The modus operandi of the LTTE also has a close resemblance to the Pol Potist regime of Kampuchea (now known as Cambodia) in the late-1970s (Saravananthan, forthcoming).

As Sri Lanka enters a post-LTTE era after a nasty war of attrition and the consequent comprehensive defeat of the LTTE and annihilation of its militaristic political leadership, it is time for introspection, self-criticism and reform by the Tamil community and to chart a way out of the current morass. There are two potential pathways ahead for the Tamil community in particular, and Sri Lanka as a whole. One is that pursued by Japan and Germany in the aftermath of the Second World War, and the other followed by post-Khmer Rouge Cambodia. Post-Second World War Japan and Germany rebounded from ashes following post-war, modus vivendi to democracy

Your Travel Companion in Sri Lanka

Sri Lanka
The jewel of the Indian Ocean
This tiny island in the southern waist of India's Sub-Continent, offers amazing array of things to see and do. Complementing with the wealth of the Indian sea it's a year ago and travel destination.

Our 2000 years old civilization provide a sense of ancient ruins for the visitors. Carefully planned ancient cities of Anuradhapura & Polonnaruwa will tell you the amazing story of our history.

Sigiriya, also dubbed as the eighth wonder of the world is an awe inspiring creation, where the Cave Palace of Queen's dominated as a bastion of the ancient Sri Lankan artistry. The Hill Capital of Pandya, which is mostly built the Temple of the Tooth relic of Buddha. Our waterfalls, framed with orchids and tea estates catches the eyes of a weary traveler. Fort City of Galle, will have re-creating most of the old world charm. Colombo, being current capital has evolved as a city of modern day city scenes with modern-urban amenities are carefully located afar.

Sri Lanka an island of birds is also, listed 7 world heritage sites. And as many as 414 bird species.

Sri Lanka is known for the nature lovers. May I be trekking, butterfly watching, viewing plants, orchids, herons & herons, we have them all. Beaches, gathering in Mirissa, Hikkaduwa National Park, is now a major event in international wildlife calendar.

White water rafting and rock climbing are for the mighty hearted, where as party of boating and fishing are for the fun loving adventures.

Overlooking and scenic living is available in most of the beach resorts. Our golden sandy beaches and crystal clear waters have been including the best goes all over the world for fitness, adventure, the "science of life", themed holidays are becoming very popular among the students, who needs to rejuvenate their energies to meet the challenges of the busy life back home.

The company
A dedicated team of professionals will attend to every need in planning and executing your memorable stay in Sri Lanka. Our knowledge of the geography, history, culture and nature of the island will give you an unparalleled insight to what you will see and do.

We have the experience to advise you to get the best out of your holiday. Routine inspections of the hotels and facilities that we give as the edge over many other competitors. Let us solve your problems, beach, holiday, nature, local culture (art, adventure, spa, wellness and spiritual) etc.

or combination of all these elements. We will design the programme in such a way that you realize that you got your money worth.

We work with almost all the hotels & villas in the country and as far as to see a perfect bit of hotels, as we have the flexibility to offer you a widest selection for you to choose with.

We are big enough to handle larger groups and back to back operations to conference and event organizing and small enough to make sure you will be given the requested attention in the event to suit your priority.

We shall make sure the holiday will be as fun & exciting, but an experience that you cherish years after, but a holiday of the time.

So this is a warm invitation to Sri Lanka in Minex way - Realism Over you like us!
